Sponsored Content

€1,200 (Includes journalist & photography fees)

Sponsored Content is considered one of the most effective tools of modern digital marketing. Through it, advertisers reach an audience in a seamless way and without disrupting the flow of content reaching the end-user. Sponsored Content is essentially online content that it is created for paid promotion, which doesn't use a traditional ad format such as a banner ad, but includes editorial content such as, in this case, a news story, an accommodation review or an events listing.

The Process

The article will be written by one of our talented in-house journalists and then passed on to the client for approval. It is then in the hands of our digital marketing experts to make sure that the post stands out from the rest! Our team will use every trick up their sleeves to ensure that the article is seen by as many people as possible, including the running of a campaign on Facebook. Additional exposure will also be given through GuideMeMalta.com's Instagram page.

A Maltese architectural marvel! Here's all you need to know about Mdina's impressive cathedral

A must visit while in Malta!

"Once safely on shore, we found out that the island was called Malta. The islanders treated us with unusual kindness. They built a fire and welcomed us all because it was raining and cold" - Acts of the Apostles Number 28 verses 1 and 2

According to tradition, the Mdina Cathedral was built on the Acropolis Citadel of the island, called Melita, where St. Paul converted to Publius, the Roman governor of Malta to Christianity. In fact, the Mdina Cathedral is dedicated to Saint Paul, the Patron of Malta following his providential shipwreck in 60AD.

The early Christians used rural and unnoticed caves to serve as churches and places of worship. However, after the year 313AD when Emperor Constantine the Great gave the freedom to practice Christianity, the site of the present Cathedral was adapted into a Roman church from the Roman Temple dedicated to Juno.

The Roman church remained there till the Byzantine period in Malta (870AD) but unfortunately documentations and evidence of a Byzantine Cathedral Basilika during the Arab occupation in Malta and are completely lost.

The full Christian freedom, the re-Christianization of Malta, the definitive Norman reconquista in 1127 and the forced expulsion of the Muslims in 1249 by Fredrick II, all led to the building of a new cathedral.

We are now able to understand how this medieval cathedral was laid out due to the planimetry exhibited inside the sacristy, which was similar to the one found in Cefalù Sicily.

The earthquake which struck Mdina on January 11, 1693 prompted the occasion to rebuild a new Cathedral. Built on a Latin-cross plan, the Mdina Cathedral embodies the architectural credentials of the prototypical early roman baroque church, which is based on De Instruktionen Fabricae et Supellectibus Ecclesiasticae, published in 1577 by Saint Charles Borromeo. The Maltese architect Lorenzo Gafà took careful attention to calculate the space defined by using the roman academic distribution of enclosure planes. These are marked by their controlled gravity and solemnity, and by their careful balance of vertical and horizontal features which are epitomised in the monumental hemisphere of the dome.
